VALEDICTORY REPORT

30TH MARCH, 2023.

OBJECTIVE OF THE EVENT

The commerce forum's valedictory is organized by the Department to express its gratitude and congratulate all the office bearers for their extensive effort in bringing out the talents of all the students in the department and also for organising all the activities during the academic year (22-23) with diligence and dedication. All the secretaries and joint secretaries will be entitled for a certificate of recognition and memento. All of the accomplishments of the students in this Academic year (first, second, and third years) will be presented at this event, and a video highlighting the accomplishments of the Department of Commerce will be featured. Additionally, students who succeed in academics, co-curricular and extra-curricular activities and athletics or have won numerous awards in other college-related events will receive a special recognition as the BEST OUTGOING STUDENT OF THE YEAR.

ABOUT THE EVENT

The valedictory of the commerce forum (Shift-II) began with a prayer hymn followed by Tamil Thai Vazhthu by the department choir. The welcome address was given by Mr. Shirish Srinivasaraj, joint event secretary. He expressed gratitude to all the students for their cooperation throughout the years, especially the secretaries. He used a quote in his address to express his gratitude to everyone present and to make the occasion one to always remember. Afterward, the coordinator, Dr. S. Prasanna Kumar, spoke and highlighted the accomplishments made by the forum members throughout the course of this academic year. He expressed his gratitude to all the professors, the deputy principal, the principal, and the management for helping to make this event possible.

After that, Mr. Annamalai, the Finance Secretary, was summoned to introduce the principal chief guest, Dr. R. Natarajan. He talked about his sporting accomplishments and the medals he received at the South Asian Games. the roles he played in the Olympics. The honorary prize he received in recognition of his lifelong accomplishments as an outstanding athlete. He thanked the visitor for attending before wrapping off his speech. Dr. Charles, the deputy principal, was then asked to make a speech. He began by welcoming the guest and then spoke about the accomplishments of the Department of Commerce (Shift-II) this year. He also spoke on the success of the department's collaboration with the Resource Centre for the Differently Abled for the skill enhancement program.

He praised both departments' efforts in organizing a one-day seminar for students with disabilities that was well welcomed by the college. He said in his speech's conclusion that the other departments should use this experience as an example and concentrate on coming up with fresh ideas along these themes. He continued by expressing gratitude to all the students and secretaries for their efforts and commitment throughout the year.

A film showcasing the events and programmes that the secretaries organized this year was shown to all of the students throughout the presentation. The students and guests were informed of the positive effects that the members of the commerce fraternity had on the students by the presenting every event that took place in the academic year 2022-2023. The newsletter for the years 2022–2023 was then published. It includes all the information about the activities, programs, and accomplishments made by the department's students in sports, academics, extracurricular activities, and other college cultural events. Following this, a special event took place to unveil the logo of a startup company called EDC CLUB, founded by Mr. Sam Sachin Britto and Mr. Rakesh J. R., third-year students of the department. Both the young entrepreneurs were recognized in this session, and the aim of their companies was stated.

The chief guest of the event Dr. R. Natarajan was invited to give his lecture to the students. he thanked all the professors and management before beginning his speech. He honored the work of the commerce forum's secretaries, coordinator, guidance faculty, and vice president. He talked about his enduring memories of this college. he stated "Our adolescence period is a very crucial period in our lives and the lessons we learn now will have an impact on the rest of our lives. the students have one last chance to improve themselves during this time. he pointed to Martin Luther King jr.'s incredible speech and said that everyone should have courage and tell themselves, "I will work to make the world see me." He stressed the significance of having self-confidence by bringing up this Dr. Martin Luther King Junior speech video. He also said that everyone should be committed to doing their best work in everything they do. He also discussed the influence of the subconscious mind. Then he discussed the value of time management and the advantages of having a good friend.

Then he listed a few of his athletic accomplishments.
