Twelfth short term Training Programme on Methods and Approaches in Research on Migration Issues November 20-24, 2017

Migration research has gained prominence in today's globalised world given its relevance for the economy and society at large. Interest in migration studies has widened beyond the discipline of demography due to its manifold implications. This programme is in continuation of the endeavor to train young scholars engaged in research on migration since 2006 under the aegis of the Research Unit on International Migration (RUIM) of the erstwhile Ministry of Overseas Indian Affairs, Government of India. The programme intends to acquaint researchers with emerging issues and consequences of internal and international migration and familiarize them with research tools to conduct surveys on migration as well as to analyse its various facets like magnitudes, characteristics, flows and implications based on various types and sources of data.

Applications are invited for the Twelfth residential edition of the programme to be held at CDS during November 20-24, 2017. Researchers and doctoral scholars of Social Sciences working on both internal and international migration are encouraged to apply. Twenty participants will be selected for programme based on their suitability and they will be offered to and fro three-tier AC train fare by the shortest route, free board and lodging. Apply before 30th September, 2017 to the Registrar, Centre for Development Studies, Prasanth Nagar, Ulloor, Thiruvananthapuram 695011 (email: emmanuel@cds.ac.in) with curriculum vitae and a one page write-up on how the applicant expects to benefit from attending the programme in pursuance of his/her ongoing research.
