SOCCER FOR CHILD RIGHTS (23/01/2015 and 24/01/2015)

The Soccer for Children Rights tournament was organised by Child Rights and You (CRY) on 24/01/2015 in which Loyola Pro-Life Forum was officially called for volunteering the event. LPLF accepted their request and volunteered the event. CRY and LPLF members had an orientation at Sauliere Hall for Shift II students in the morning. Students were divided into separated groups for volunteering the whole event. Over 80 students volunteered the event and helped to make it a grand success. Apart from certificate students also learnt something about sports and child rights.

The one-day football match, organised on the occasion of the National Girl Child Day, saw nine corporate teams — HDFC Bank, Vodafone, Trends-in-Vogue, Wabag, Ford, Technip, Ramco Systems, Infosys and iNautix — and a group from the Slum Children Sports Talent Education Development Society (SCSTEDS) in Vyasarpadi battle it out in a round-robin tournament.

Mayor Saidai Duraisamy inaugurated the tournament at YMCA grounds in Nandanam.

Suma Ravi, Regional director, CRY (South), said, “Soccer for Child Rights is CRY’s flagship tournament where children from our project in the Vysarpadi slums participated to prove that sport can change their lives. We are glad the tournament found interest among many in the corporate world and are grateful to them for participating.”

In the final, SCSTEDS beat HDFC (3-0) and won a cash prize of Rs. 25,000.
