

An interaction with Jananathan

Students of film making, cinematography and film editing had an interaction with Mr. Jananathan, Director of the Tamil feature film “Purambokku Engira Pothuvudamai” on 22nd October 2016.

A national award winning director, he started off his career by assisting legendary Editor-Director Mr. Lenin. After assisting him for more than 10 years he made his maiden feature “Iyarkai” which won him a national award for best feature film (Tamil). His second venture “E”, a medical-thriller won accolades for its content.

After the film screening, Mr. Jananathan briefed the students about himself and how he started his film career. He shared about his experiences of working with Editor Lenin. When students asked about his maiden film “Iyarkai”, he said the film’s one line was obtained from the novel “White Nights”. He said the film was started with a shoe-string budget and most of the shots were taken in Andaman Islands. Mr. Jananathan also spoke about the Light-house which was specially constructed for the film in Andaman and also said how they matched some shots in Tuticorin.
